ACCIDENTALLY RAN OVER HIS OWN DOG

The fine thoroughbred Scotch collie belonging to Col. Sellers met his death last evening in a manner peculiarly sad in that he was accidentally run over by the automobile of his master. Col. Sellers, his wife and little girl were riding in the car near the corner of Sixth street and Center avenue last evening and the dog, which was a great pet of the family, sat in the front seat by the side of Col. Sellers, who was running the machine. The dog had its front paws on the hood of the automobile, in which position he was accustomed to ride and when the car started and slid over the hood and down under the wheels before anything could be done to restrain him. A front and rear wheel passed over the dog's body, causing an internal hemorrhage which resulted in his death a few hours later. Col. Sellers, who was the injured animal to the dog hospital, but nothing could be done to save the animal's life. The sellers family is much grieved over the death of their pet for which no amount of money would have been taken.

GREAT FLOCKS OF SHEEP ARE NOW BEING MOVED

Necessity of Dipping Animals Causes General Movement to Centers.

"Travelers have frequently remarked this summer on the great number of sheep seen in various parts of the county and they wonder at the increase over last year," said a local sheep buyer this morning. "The fact is the increase of flocks in the territory is not such as could be noticed by the casual observer, though the number of sheep on the move at this particular time might lead one to cognizant of the cause to suppose the number of sheep had vastly increased."

"Perhaps in no other year in the history of the territory have as many sheep been sold out of New Mexico as this year. Sheepmen of Arizona have bought heavily of the best stock in this territory and in most instances have driven the flocks overland to their destination. This movement of so many animals gives the impression to one seeing them from a car window that it is the general custom to take sheep in such enormous flocks, which, of course, would not be practicable."

Reason For It.

"Another reason for so many sheep being in evidence is the recent dipping regulation which was put into force the first of July. To exterminate the scabbies among sheep the government ordered that all the flocks in the territory be dipped in a medical solution which kills the parasite and rids the sheep of the disease which more than any other one thing has been a detriment to the sheep industry in New Mexico. The dipping regulation requires that the sheep swim through the medical preparation (a lime and sulphur solution) in the most common one used in a vat a hundred feet long. The idea of this is to keep the animals in the dip at least two minutes which time it requires to kill the pest. It takes a sheep two minutes to swim one hundred feet, thus the simplest method of dipping according to the government regulation is to make them swim the length of a vat. It would not be practicable to have these huge vats on every sheep ranch so headquarters are established and the sheep from all parts of one district journey to the vat for dipping, hence the unusual amount of sheep movement this year."

Great Flocks.

"A tourist seeing a great gathering of flocks at the dipping stations would not understand the situation and naturally would suppose the sheep to be owned by one rancher or one company, where as they may be owned by a dozen different proprietors. "The grazing this season is of extraordinary excellence so the various sheep owners are inclined to take advantage of this and have their flocks to the dipping stations by circuitous routes, thus further warranting the impression that the territory is one vast grazing land. When it is taken into consideration that all sheep must be dipped twice within ten days, it can be understood what a great movement of flocks is necessary. The first dipping kills the parasites, but does not kill the eggs. These eggs hatch out within ten days and by a second dipping they are killed and the sheep is freed from the cause of disease."

Looks Like Prosperity.

"It is a fine sight to see a great number of sheep being moved. It looks like prosperity. It shows what a great industry the sheep business is here and what it means to the territory. Ordinarily many of these flocks are hidden from public view in the secluded mountain grazing lands and are never seen except when sold in the market or driven across country for one purpose or another. Undoubtedly the dipping on such a wholesale scale and in such a thorough manner will have a radical influence on the sheep industry. If the weather is favorable, next season ought to be the best sheep year New Mexico has ever known in view of the eradication of the scabbies."

GREAT BARGAIN SALE IS ON IN FULL BLAST

Golden Rule Dry Goods Store Crowded With Eager Buyers.

There is now in progress at the store of the Golden Rule Dry Goods company, on the corner of Central avenue and Third street, one of the biggest bargain sales of the season in this city. When the doors of the store opened this morning the crowds began coming and the sales force of the firm was taxed to the limit in waiting on customers in spite of the fact that twenty-five additional clerks have been employed for the sale.

The wide publicity given to the sale is responsible for the great rush of business. Surely the advertising by this firm is bringing results, as adequate advertising always does. The management of the firm expressed themselves as highly pleased with the way the sale is starting out and feel confident that when it is illustrated thoroughly that this is actually a reduction sale and that bargains are to be had as advertised, the people who have not already been attracted will flock to the store.

The special features of the sale are notions and ladies' ready-to-wear garments of all kinds. A great stock of such garments have been marked down to low prices and an exceptional opportunity is afforded ladies to lay in a supply of these goods at a minimum cost. As an inducement to make customers call more than once the management has issued cards which are handed their patrons as they leave the store, and which if presented upon their coming again, entitle them to a reduction of five per cent in addition to the advertised prices.

The purpose of the sale is to make room for the fall stock of goods, yet the things on sale are by no means out-of-date. The latest styles of garments and notions of all kinds, of standard manufacturers are subject to a reduced price without reservation. The entire stock is on sale at a greatly reduced price. All remnants are being sold at less than one half the regular price.

For Fifteen Days.
The sale is strictly for cash and will continue daily for fifteen days, after which the regular prices of the goods will be restored. By reason of the very large assortment of goods in stock the purchaser has the opportunity to make a satisfactory selection of articles desired.

The reduction sale extends to the gentlemen's furnishing department and here the entire stock of men's and boys' clothing is offered for sale at bargain prices. Like the rest this stock of clothing is of this season's styles. While a great number of people attend the sale, efficient service is rendered the customer and no one is hindered from inspecting the stock until he is satisfied with his choice. The force of the store has been augmented to meet with the extra demands and every customer will receive careful attention. Provision has been made against unnecessary crowding or unusual delays. Promptness and dispatch is evident in the conduct of the sale.

For further particulars of the sale watch the advertisements.

ALBUQUERQUEAN PARTY TO BIG MINE CONTEST

W. J. Alexander Is Interested in Suit at Nome, Alaska.

Notice has been received by W. J. Alexander of a suit about to be entered shortly involving title claim No. 1 below Dry Creek near Nome, Alaska, where he has several mining claims, this being one of them.

The contest will be between the Wild Goose Mining company and A. G. Bruner, Dick Dawson, W. J. Alexander and others. It is stated the case will be filed in the district court of Nome, as soon as Attorney Bruner and Dick Dawson arrive there.

The property in dispute is crossed by the beach line, and is alleged to be worth a million dollars. The mine was discovered by Dick Miller and worked by W. J. Alexander in 1906. The following summer it was worked on an extensive scale and it is alleged that assessment work has been kept up during the following years, although it has not been worked much since.

It is further alleged that the Wild Goose Mining company removed about $300,000 worth of ore from the mine last winter. The company owns claims all around those of Mr. Alexander, and it is now reported they are trying to secure claim No. 1. Down to low prices and an exceptional opportunity is afforded ladies to lay in a supply of these goods at a minimum cost. As an inducement to make customers call more than once the management has issued cards which are handed their patrons as they leave the store, and which if presented upon their coming again, entitle them to a reduction of five per cent in addition to the advertised prices.

The claim being a rich one, the case will be watched with great interest by the people of Nome, especially those who were there in the early days.
